Dan Zick is a litigation attorney in the firm's Lansing office. As a member of the firm's litigation practice group, he focuses his practice primarily on general civil litigation, as well as commercial, municipal, and insurance defense litigation.

Dan is experienced at litigating numerous types of cases. He has successfully litigated hundreds of personal injury claims from start to finish and obtained favorable results for clients suffering from amputation injuries, slip and fall accidents, and dog bite injuries, and practices in state and federal courts throughout Michigan.

Dan prides himself on being approachable and candid with his clients and guiding them throughout the legal process with honest communication.

Dan graduated cum laude with his Juris Doctor from Michigan State University College of Law. Following law school, Dan gained valuable experience litigating serious injury cases in the Metro-Detroit area, where he started his career defending liquor liability cases, premises liability, and medical malpractice cases, among others.

Dan seeks to handle each case with compassion, thoughtfulness and is never afraid to fight for his clients.
